2024 Collection

Hand in hand with nature

The most natural approach for us is to work with nature. By making our products in places where the materials grow in abundance and skilled craftsmen work with pride, we strive to limit our impact on nature as much as possible. Always from a circular and living world perspective with our Scandinavian heritage in mind.

The result is a timeless collection originating in nature, born of a close, long-term collaboration between two worlds. Simply natural teamwork.

Many of our sustainable jute rugs and doormats are handmade in southern India. Jute is a hard-wearing fibre that is easy to work. Thanks to modern manufacturing methods, it can be made into a soft, natural yarn that is a pleasure to weave and dye.

The result is beautiful and classic rugs and doormats where every product is unique.

Sisal fibres from the sisal agave plant are about 1 metre long, ivory coloured, shiny and very strong. Use of sisal is advantageous from an environmental point of view as sisal absorbs more carbon dioxide than it produces.

Rugs made from sisal are naturally strong and suitable for most inside areas.

Circular craftmanship

In India you find our amazing suppliers of jute, sisal and rubber mats. All our sisal mats are machine woven, whereas the jute mats are hand woven, in the old artisan tradition, from machine- or hand-spun yarn.

Our Indian producers have a well-developed circular approach. Many work together to find solutions enabling them to maximise the lifetime of products and make optimum use of waste products from a circular-economy perspective. Our suppliers have also secured access to fresh water by using an efficient water treatment system.

Ensuring good working conditions is another key focus. All the employees who produce our jute mats benefit, for example, from subsidised lunches and a 60% discount if they need to buy glasses. This is good for the employees and good for our suppliers, as the workers can then see the products clearly when checking their quality and producing them.

Social and environmental responsibility is very important for our supplier producing our hard-wearing sisal mats as well. Here too we find long experience and a high level of expertise, with a focus on quality. We are proud that our suppliers mostly score very highly when AMFORI, an organisation that promotes social responsibility and sustainable working conditions, carries out its inspections.

Gather and collect

Many of our baskets are handwoven from water hyacinth. This way, we help prevent Vietnamese watercourses from becoming clogged. Water hyacinth is a weed that grows freely, and which has a suffocating impact on major freshwater river systems.

Our choice of material results in items that are durable in the home and sustainable in nature.

Baskets that bind two worlds together

Many of our finest and most popular baskets are made by hand from water hyacinths in Vietnam. Water hyacinths are beautiful lilac colour when they bloom. They cause a lot of problems though. They spread uncontrollably and clog up the watercourses that are an important source of fresh water around the Mekong Delta. The stalks can however be used. They are harvested, dried and hand woven by skilled craftspeople to become much-loved baskets and pouffes.

We are really proud of our baskets. Because of their attractive design, but perhaps most of all because of our long-term, close partnership with our producer in Vietnam. A well-run, sustainable factory a short distance from Saigon.

Natural, local production

The baskets production provides work for around a hundred people and many local farmers who live their lives by the river.

The water hyacinths grow on the surface of the water like a floating weed. The farmers who monitor the plant population harvest the longest stalks, while the parent plant is left in the river to grow more. The stalks must then be dried in the sun for a few days before they are stored and woven. The colour and structure of the stalks may vary slightly depending on the time of year.

The factory distributes the materials to local families who weave the products at home. The families can therefore adapt their working hours to their everyday lives, such as their children's school timetables. The finished products are then collected and transported to the factory, where they undergo a manual quality control. The finished woven baskets are rinsed clean with water and sprayed with an environmentally certified starch that holds the fibres together. They are then dried in the sun, or in large drying cabinets, depending on the weather. Finally, the baskets are kept in a storage area with optimised humidity conditions before being packed and shipped by boat to us in Sweden.

As water hyacinths are living materials that are affected by how they grow and are dried and woven, the baskets become a unique addition to your home.

Linnea
Linen Placemats

Material:
Starched linen /

What could be more beautiful and welcoming on a lovingly set table than carefully handmade linen placemats in sober colours. The fibres in the stalks of flax plants are turned into the beautiful linen yarn that we weave into place mats before dipping them in starch for greater durability. Join us at table with classic Linnea.

A business run sustainably

Bangladesh is the country, where many of our baskets and place mats are made. A lot of jute and seagrass grow here. Our products are made by hand, using sewing machines, needles and scissors. You can really see the hand at work. It means that every product is unique.

Seagrass grows as a weed in Bangladesh and we help nature by using it to make products. Our supplier buys either finished seagrass rope or leaves that are twisted by hand. All jute is grown, which requires a lot of sun and a humid climate. It is not surprising then that 90% of the world's jute is grown in Bangladesh and India.

All of the jute plant's parts are used. The leaves are used as a vegetable. The fibres peeled off the stem are used to produce jute yarn. The left-over jute stalks are dried in the sun and used to create room dividers, or burnt to turn them into coal. The loose "dust" that is released when the fibres processed contain jute seeds is gathered up and replanted to become new plants. Crop rotation is also a consciously used farming method. After a period of jute cultivation the earth is more nitrogen rich, making it perfect, for example, for growing root vegetables, onions and rice. This closes the loop.

The women and men who work at the factory are highly skilled with a sewing machine. A seagrass or jute basket can be produced in a matter of minutes, either using a sewing machine or entirely by hand. It's fascinating to watch. Finally, each product is meticulously inspected, often by women who can spot the slightest flaw thanks to their sharp eyes and long experience as artisans. Our suppliers are proud of their role as employers and take good care of their employees. The conditions are more basic than here, but there is still an infirmary, evacuation plans, fire prevention measures, protective equipment, and transport to and from work. There is a clear will to develop a sustainably-run business.
